About

Hello,

I am Stefan

I live in a small town in northeastern Romania and have had a passion for sports since childhood. I've played swimming, basketball, football, and tennis, each sport teaching me valuable life lessons.

In high school, my interest shifted to technology, particularly solving algorithmic problems with C/C++. I competed in the Computer Science Olympiads and continue solving problems for the intellectual challenge.

This summer, I volunteered to develop a website and worked as a data input operator. These experiences enhanced my technical skills and gave me practical industry insights, driving my dedication to learning and growth.

The Personal Brand

In addition to programming, I enjoy playing football and tennis. I was part of a football club a few years ago and still play regularly with friends. I've also been playing tennis for two years. Sports are a great way for me to relax, stay active, and connect with others.

I also love traveling, it opens my eyes to unique traditions, local customs, and new perspectives.
