Reasons for Participating in the Erasmus Project
My career path is laser-focused on creating engaging and innovative digital experiences – websites, games, and applications that captivate users. This is why the Erasmus project is such a perfect fit. It's a golden opportunity to dive headfirst into practical application, moving beyond textbooks and lectures to gain real-world experience in my chosen field.
Here's what truly excites me about this project:
• It will provide hands-on Skill Development: I will be able to actively participate in creating something from scratch, from coming up with ideas and design to coding and testing. This immersive experience will allow me to hone my skills.

Skills

- Automation: Proficient in scripting languages such as Python and Autohotkey to automate tasks and improve efficiency.
- Web Development: Knowledgeable on building a website using React.JS and Tailwind CSS.

I'm a self-taught programmer, I like tackling challenging projects. My drive to learn and adapt has led me to overcome many obstacles while honing my skills through online resources and courses.
I first began by purchasing a course that was on sale. At the time, I did not think it will become such a big part of my development. The course took me about 1 year and a half to fully complete and assimilate, has changed my thinking and perspective to problem-solving in all parts of my life.

For example, my godfather, who has an extensive digital library, challenged me to create an algorithm that could efficiently organize his collection. I developed a script that used AI to process the titles of over 200,000 books, standardize their formatting, and categorize them alphabetically by author – all within just 30 minutes of running! He was incredibly impressed with the speed and efficiency of the solution I created.

Interests

- Emerging Technologies: I am keen on following the latest advancements in technology, as an example I am always informed in what are the specifications of the latest phones, processors, keyboards, smartwatches, earbuds, headphones, speakers and graphic cards.
- Fitness: I enjoy staying active and maintaining a healthy lifestyle. I go daily to the gym and prepare my own meals to stay on top of my health. I embrace the saying" Mens sana in corpore sano". Other activities I enjoy are: walking, running, swimming, skiing, biking, football, basketball.
- Travel: I am passionate about exploring new places and experiences through traveling all around the world. This helps me develop my own understanding of the world and how I play a part in it.
- Animals: I love animals and I love helping them. I find joy and companionship in interacting with animals.
- Gaming: I am an enthusiastic gamer who enjoys immersive experiences because games aren't only for entertainment, they are a form of learning and developing new skills like team work, hand-eye coordination, problem-solving abilities in a short amount of time.
- Volunteering: I have opted with Volunteering because giving back enriches the spirit. I have volunteered in the organizations like "Don Bosco" and "Door2Outdoor", the former is about helping and supervising children, teaching them to manage diverse parts of life. The ladder is made for helping people with disabilities to enjoy diverse outdoor activities.
